Overview

Can non-concentrating solar thermal systems provide thermal energy in Afghanistan?

Given the requirement of hot-water (and low-grade heat) for domestic, community and commercial purposes throughout the year in Afghanistan, non-concentrating solar thermal systems (flat-plate or ETC) can play a critical role in providing thermal energy to these applications. Accordingly, Roadmap suggests a total target of 60 MW under this category.

Can biomass energy be used in Afghanistan?

Recently, some studies are under process for biomass energy projects in Kabul city and Balkh province under supervision of Kabul Municipality, Ministry of Urban development. Applications of bio-energy such as waste to energy and biogas units are relevant to Afghanistan.

Can municipal solid waste be converted into energy in Afghanistan?

The conversion of municipal solid waste into energy is of strategic importance to Afghanistan considering the amount of solid waste generated in major municipalities. For instance, Kabul generates approximately 1600 tonnes of MSW daily. The first proposed pilot project for 6.0 MW in Kabul municipality is an encouraging initiative.

Is stand-alone solar PV a viable option in Afghanistan?

In the Afghanistan context, stand-alone solar PV has been widely in use across rural areas, driven largely by lack of options for electricity supply. Most of these systems are assembled out of imported components or systems from neighbouring countries. As a result, these units usually are not certified, and could be of questionable quality.
