

China's solar container communication station inverter grid connection

Overview

The integrated containerized photovoltaic inverter station centralizes the key equipment required for grid-connected solar power systems — including AC/DC distribution, inverters, monitoring, and communication units — all housed within a specially designed, sealed container. Are Chinese solar power inverters connected to critical infrastructure grids?

U.S. energy officials have launched an investigation after discovering unauthorized communication equipment embedded within Chinese-manufactured solar power inverters connected to critical infrastructure grids across the country.

Are hidden communication devices in Chinese-manufactured solar panels a threat?

Recent findings have uncovered hidden communication devices within Chinese-manufactured solar panels, sparking serious concerns over the security of national power grids.

Are Chinese inverters a threat to solar power?

This vulnerability is especially dangerous given the growing penetration of solar power on Western grids, where in some regions, Chinese-manufactured inverters control upwards of 200 gigawatts of generating capacity - equivalent to more than 200 nuclear power plants.

Will Chinese inverters affect European grids?

Some, like Florida Power & Light Company, are reportedly reducing their reliance on Chinese inverters, although the utility declined to comment. “Ten years ago, if you switched off the Chinese inverters, it would not have caused a dramatic thing to happen to European grids,” said Philipp Schroeder, CEO of German solar developer 1Komma5.
