Overview

What is a bifacial solar panel?

A bifacial solar panel is a modern solar technology that captures sunlight on both the front and back sides of the panel. While traditional panels absorb light only from one side, bifacial panels take advantage of reflected light from surfaces like rooftops, concrete, or the ground to generate extra power.

How efficient are bifacial solar panels?

There are several. For starters, bifacial solar panels efficiency is higher than standard. Mono-side panels have a 17-21% energy conversion rate on average. When the rear side of a bi-module works at full capacity, its efficiency can reach 25-27%. Thus you need much less space to build a powerful solar system.

Who makes bifacial solar panels?

JA Solar, Jinko, Trina, Canadian Solar can be listed among most popular bifacial solar panels manufacturers. Solar experts see great potential in bifacial modules and expect them to become more and more popular, which means we can expect more and more brands to start making them.

Which solar bifacial panels are cheapest?

The cheapest panels come from China. For example, Trina Solar bifacial panels are a solid choice: the company is known to be modern and innovative. Today this company competes in Top-5 world's solar brands and offers a diverse product line with relatively low prices. Another good choice would be LONGi Solar bifacial panels.
